a. For the Distance Learning phase, the unit inputs the soldier into Army Training Requirements and Resources System (ATRRS) to include the soldier's email address. Notification is then sent to the soldier of the eb address for the training. This material is tested during the final phase.

b. The MOS-specific distance learning phases require input by the unit into ATRRS to order the soldier's study materials. For MOS 91WY2 and 91R, unit will be asked to provide copy of orders appointing a member to Test Control duties. That individual will administer proctored examinations to the soldier for the materials. The 91WY2 requires the Test Control individual to submit results of testing to AMEDDC&S; 91R requires return of the tests for grading.

c. The final phase of each BNCOC is two weeks AT/ADT and consists of 35 hours 91CMF instruction, 21 hours MOS instruction, and a Situational Training Exercise with 36-hours continuous operations.
